What does it all mean?

In addition to reporting the significant happenings and trends of office administration and automation, OAA goes behind the news and reports what all this information means. Our experienced editors and knowledgeable guest contributors speak with authority. Each month, they cut through the current confusion in the marketplace, define issues and explain the tactical and technical alternatives to office equipment choices.

A money-saving investment that can pay off quickly.

Are you a decision-maker in office systems management? Then you need OFFICE ADMINISTRATION AND AUTOMATION. To encourage you to test your need for OAA, we're offering introductory subscriptions for only $11 for one year (12 issues). That's a $9 savings from the regular subscription price of $20.

Based on comments we've received from subscribers to OAA, just one issue can contain profitable ideas and information that will repay you the subscription cost many times over. And as an office executive involved in a part of business that is growing in importance, you'll be increasing your expertise and managerial skills which can help speed up your career advancement.

OAA: The one magazine that's vital to you.

The time to subscribe to OFFICE ADMINISTRATION AND AUTOMATION is now. Whatever your target for the future, this new, unique pubication can help. Just fill out the enclosed order form and mail it, postage-paid. Without OAA, you may be missing vital information that can make a difference in your success—in the months and years just ahead.

Two last words: unconditional guarantee. If you are dissatisfied for any reason with OFFICE ADMINISTRATION AND AUTOMATION, you can receive a refund for all unmailed issues. What could be fairer? We look forward to hearing from you. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Donald McAllister, Jr.
